Fashion Forecast for '76
Fabric News - -

Stripes are the primary Spring message. You will find them showing up in all major fabric types and color stories. Uneven stripes are on the increase.

Denim is still Americas favorite fabric. Now it comes in faded, brushed, stitched, and quilted versions. The latest fashion message is the printed imitation of the real thing in country patchwork or faded looks with decorative topstitching.

Gauze is new on the fashion scene. You can buy it with open weaves to heavier weights with a crinkled, wrinkled finish.

Sheer fabrics like voile, eyelet, and laces are gaining in fashion popularity. Especially interesting are those fabrics with textured effects such as satin-stripings, burn-out designs and embroidered motifs.

Prints still rate high in the forecast. Popular for spring and summer will be tiny florals of all types, bright little calicoes, and American Indian art prints. Border prints will be especially good.

Color Highlights - -

Pottery tones are the neutrals for the spring and summer wardrobe. New and fashion-right are Clay-Pot and Willow which are the paled-down versions of the Rust and Parsley tones so popular last fall.

Porcelain Pales are perfect for the romantic look in feminine dressing or evening wear. Wedgewood Blue is a continued favorite with Opaline Lilac and Cameo Pink coming on strong.

Brilliant Glazes are the tried and true clear bright colors that will add vitality to a casual or active sports wardrobe. Especially popular for this Bicentennial year will be the red, white, and blue combination.

Bright Lacquers are the vibrant, exotic colors favored for the orientally-inspired fashions. These colors will be seen in solids and prints. A classic fashion team - - pristine white and midnight black will be extremely popular this year.

Creating your own fashions is more exciting than it has ever been.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Chocolate Chip Cake

1 box yellow cake mix
1 small box instant vanilla pudding
¾ cup cooking oil
1 cup milk
4 eggs
1 bar German chocolate, grated (reserve 1 tablespoon for top)
1 6 oz. pkg. chocolate chips

Mix all ingredients except the two chocolates, put them in the bowl last. Bake in greased and floured tube or bundt pan at 350° for 30 minutes then 300° for 30 minutes. Cool on rack and sprinkle with reserved chocolate.

"The South 40" by JAMES A. SMITH EXTENSION AGENT

The most exciting event of the new year was the Red House Bull Sale last Saturday as an overflow crowd divided up the highest testing group of bulls ever tested in Virginia.

This was the fourth year that the Red House Bull Evaluation Center has been in operation and each year the new records of performance have been established. In 1975 the group averaged 3.04 pounds per day while on the 140-day feed test. This year the 86 bulls tested averaged 3.13 or .9 of a pound better. These are the only two groups ever tested in Virginia that exceeded the magic 3 pounds.

The bidding opened with lot 107 - - a stylish polled Hereford bred by Knoll Crest Farm at Red House. All bulls in the Red House sale carry a minimum price and lot 107 carried a minimum price of $3000. The brisk bidding ended with the young sire going to Walter Potter, Rio Grande, Brazil for $12,000. The price set a new record for performance tested bulls in Virginia. Until Saturday the top selling bull sold was an Angus selling for $8000 two years ago at Culpeper. I'm told that this figure is also the highest for any performance tested sale in Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The 20 Polled Herefords brought $38,575, an average of $1929. The 34 Angus brought $33,218 or $977 per head. The two Semmental averaged $750, two Charolais averaged $713 and a horned Hereford $600. When it was all over 59 bulls rang up $75,318, averaging $1276.

These cattle represent the finest genetic material available in Virginia and should be expected to demand attention by progressive breeders. My only regret is that only one bull found a home in Appomattox County - - this was an Angus bull purchased by D.B. Mc. Craw.

Plaques to the top performing individual polled Hereford, Angus and group of three or more bulls were presented by T.D. Evans, President, Farmers National Bank to: Silbersipin Farm, Catlett, Va. for the top performing Angus. Knoll Crest Farm, Red House, Va. for the top polled Hereford and Mt. Rush Farm, Buckingham, Va. for the top performing group of three or more bulls.

Some people have asked how are you able to get 31 of the 59 bulls to weigh 1000 or more pounds at a year of age; it must be a "hot ration." Actually it's a very practical ration that's available to any cattleman. In a ton mix there was 1300 pounds high quality corn silage, 540 pounds of cracked shelled corn, 140 pounds 44% soybean meal, 10 pounds limestone, 10 pounds trace mineralized salt and 2 million units of vitamin A. These were fed on dirt lots in feedlot feeders.

The next Red House sale will be for Junior bulls on February 28.

Va. Fire-Cured & Sun-Cured Tobacco Allotments Announced For 1976 Crops

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced on Jan. 29 the national acreage allotments for the 1976 crops of Virginia fire-cured and sun-cured tobaccos.

The 1976 allotment for Virginia fire-cured (type 21) tobacco is 11,230 acres. The 1976 allotment for Virginia sun-cured (type 37) tobacco is 1,621 acres, compared with 1,700 acres for 1975.

Acreage allotments for most farms growing these kinds of tobacco will be about the same in 1976 as in 1975. Allotments for some farms having tobacco acreage history in recent years below 75 percent of their allotments will be reduced in 1976 more in line with plantings. Notices showing the 1976 allotments for individual farms will be mailed to farm operators in the near future by local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committees.

As in the past, a small acreage of each kind of tobacco has been reserved for establishing allotments for farms having no tobacco acreage history during the past five years, for correcting errors and for adjusting inequities.

Virginia sun-cured tobacco growers approved quotas on the 1974-76 crops in a referendum held Feb. 25 - Mar. 1, 1974.

The department announced also that a referendum will be held Feb. 23-27 to determine whether Virginia fire-cured tobacco growers favor the continuation of marketing quotas on the 1976-78 crops. Local county ASC committees will mail ballots to all known producers. Any producer who does not receive a ballot may obtain one from the office of the local ASC committee.

HENNY PENNY EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS CLUB

The Henny Penny Extension Homemakers Club met on January 21, 1976, at the home of our president, Mrs. Mary West, with Mrs. West and Mrs. Elizabeth Scott acting as hostesses.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. Martha Pankey. The minutes were read with approval. Thirteen members were present.

The demonstration was given on hanging, framing & matting pictures. The 1976 Handbooks were distributed to members and filled in for the year.

Our hostesses served us delicious refreshments after which a Bible Quiz was held with Mrs. Martha Pankey winning the prize.

The February meeting will be held at the Extension Office.

Travel Economy In State Shows 1975 Rise

Richmond -- Virginia's travel economy experienced a sizable rise during 1975 in terms of total expenditures by travelers and the total number of visitors, according to a report prepared by Dr. Lewis Copeland of the University of Tennessee and released by the Virginia State Travel Service.

Estimated total expenditures by travelers in Virginia during 1975 were $1.45 billion, up 10 percent from 1974's estimated total of $1.25 billion. According to the report, Virginia's percentage increase compares favorably to the 12 percent increase in the South Atlantic region and to the 10 percent increase of travel expenditures nationwide.

Out-of-state travelers made 51 million person-trips to or through Virginia last year - reflecting a four percent increase over 1974 - and spent an estimated $854 million. Virginians traveling within the state spent $592 million.

The report also states that travel spending in Virginia accounted for nine percent of total retail sales. Travel spending fully supported 67,000 fulltime jobs for Virginians and helped to support 93,570 more, for a total of 160,570 persons who owe their travel-related businesses in Virginia, or 17 percent of the total workforce in private commerce.

The report noted that firms and individuals engaged in travel-related service contributed $382 million in state taxes in 1975 (24 percent of the total state tax revenue), $78 million in local and property taxes, and $174 million in federal taxes.

Indicating the growth of travel in Virginia over the past several years, the report showed that total travel spending has risen from $190 million in 1948 to $1.45 billion in 1975. Concerning expenditures only by out-of-state travelers to or through Virginia, the figure has risen from $113 million in 1948 to $854 million in 1975.

On a projectable basis, the report predicts that travel spending in Virginia will reach $1.99 billion in 1980. Such variables as energy availability are not taken into account.

In reviewing the findings of the Copeland Report, Dr. Douglas C. Frechtling, director of the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D. C. commented that "Virginia's economic gains in the area of travel seems to reflect the national trend toward a more stable and certainly healthier economy than experienced in 1974 and the first part of 1975. This positive trend is expected to continue through the Bicentennial year, and the travel industry in Virginia and the rest of the nation should be able to look forward to significant growth and development."

Dr. Copeland determines Virginia travel revenue through a computation of census data, sales tax revenue, traffic counts, and in some cases, direct in-put from tourist-oriented cities, communities and attractions. Copeland's more detailed study for 1975, containing a breakdown of the economic impact of travel on each Virginia city and county, including dollars spent, number of jobs and businesses serving travelers, and other pertinent information, will be available by early March.

James Meyer To Conduct Jewelry Workshop ATSVCC

KEYSVILLE - James Meyer, an instructor in the Crafts Department at Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, will conduct a three-day residency program in Jewelry-making here on the John H. Daniel Campus of SVCC February 16,17, &18.

The program is being sponsored locally by the Central Chapter of the Virginia Museum for it's members and is part of an extensive statewide Artists-in-Residence Program offered by the Virginia Museum for its chapters and affiliates. The programs offered in the series range in length from one day to three weeks and include sessions in photography, three-dimensional design, and weaving, as well as jewelry-making.

Meyer's residency program will be devoted to the basics of design and production of jewelry objects. He will present lecture-demonstrations followed by workshop time for participants. Techniques involved will include piercing, soldering, forging and basic stone setting.

He will conduct his program at the John H. Daniel Campus of Southside Virginia Community College.

A full member of the Society of North American Goldsmiths, Meyers earned his B.A. degree from the State University of New York at Albany and his M.F.A. degree from State University College in New Paltz, New York.

In addition to having exhibited his work in many regional and national invitational shows, he has conducted workshops at the Brookfield Craft Center in Connecticut, the Penland School of Crafts in Penland, N. C. and at Catholic University in Washington, D. C.

Additional information on his residency program in jewelry making may be obtained by calling Mr. Jack Cutler, Director of Continuing Education, John H. Daniel Campus, SVCC, Keysville, 736-8484.

Patrick Henry Boys Plantation 400 Acre Estate Donated To

"Tenn-Echo", home of Mrs. C. I. Anderson, of Rustburg, Va., has been donated to Patrick Henry Boys Plantation, Inc. of Brookneal, Va. This 400 acre estate is located approximately 1 mile west of Rustburg on Highway U.S. 24 and approximately 28 miles from "Red Hill" and headquarters for Patrick Henry Boys Plantation.

Mrs. Orba H. Alexander Anderson, the donor, is a member of the Plantation Board of Trustees and a member of the program committee. Mrs. Anderson recently deeded "Tenn-Echo" to The Plantation retaining for herself a life estate on the farm. This plan had been under consideration by Mrs. Anderson and her late husband, Mr. C. I. Anderson, for about 2 years.

Mr. Anderson was also a member of the Board of Trustees. He organized and was president of the Campbell County Bank and served as vice-chairman of the Board of Directors of Fidelity National Bank after the Rustburg Bank merged with Fidelity.

The gift of the farm will be a memorial to Mrs. Anderson's first husband, the late Ernest E. Alexander. The couple made their home at "Tenn-Echo" until Mr. Alexander's death in 1955.

Although the farm will not become the property of Patrick Henry Boys Plantation until Mrs. Anderson's death, she has agreed for development to begin at the earliest possible date and will relinquish her life estate in whatever portion of the farm that is needed for development.

The primary interest at the present time is to establish a group home for girls at "Tenn-Echo". This would fit into the Plantation's long range plans to establish satellite group homes and keep the total number of children at Red H Hill" to 40 or less. Of course, financial resources will determine when it will be feasible to implement this plan.

There are also future plans to utilize the home at "Tenn-Echo" as a memorial to Mr. C. I. Anderson. Among the possible uses discussed are a conference center, a museum and a guest house.

The Plantation has conveyed their deep gratitude to Mrs. Anderson for this valuable gift to the Plantation and given their assurance that it would be used to provide a helping hand to less fortunate fellow and future citizens. Robert McCullough, Executive Director, said, "this generous gift adds a new dimension to our program and will greatly extend our ability to help others". Of course, full utilization will require additional resources that are not currently available." "As soon as the possibilities of this gift are fully realized, I feel sure a great number will join into helping develop the potential here." "It is gratifying to see Mrs. Anderson's enthusiasm and know of her intense desire to see something develop during her lifetime that will bring benefit to others."

The Patrick Henry Boys Plantation currently has 28 boys in care at Brookneal and is scheduled to open an additional cottage there during the summer of 1976 to accommodate 12 more boys. Boys who need placement outside their natural home are accepted from throughout the state of Virginia. A girls home will be a new operation for the program and greatly expand the ability to provide services to families in distress.
